PRESIDENT'S CORNER

Lists.

I make lists.

List what I need to do today.

List of ideas I would like to paint.

I am doing it now. Making a list.

This year, I found I was creating the same list of things I need to do as president of RIWS as last year.

And at the top of my list for the last two years:

1. Find grants to help us fund our organization and events or capital improvements.

We are probably the only nonprofit that does not have any outside assistance. I have to applaud how we manage to control our budget and watch expenses so we can offer all we do without these additional funds.

But just think...

1. A grant for gallery house improvements such as our back door.

2. A grant to offer a special exhibition.

3. A grant to upgrade our computer systems.

I am making a list again.

Grants involve a lot of computer research to find what is available and to determine if we meet the criteria. They require attention to detail to keep track of dates and requirements also organization and writing skills.

If you have any interest in helping us with grants, please email the gallery. We will start a committee and divide the tasks. In 2013, Rhode Island Watercolor Society WILL apply for at least 3 grants. And I can check it off my list :)

up hard copy Newsletters and notifications, it is just a secondary source to get the information you need to schedule your time! Send us a message asking to subscribe to the e-mails. You will not regret it!

Coupon book will continue to be sold, they are a great investment saving you money for all Open Juried Shows by $4.00 per show right off the bat. If you are confused about how they work, have question, or want more information, contact the gallery.

We want to hear from you! Please make a point to schedule the annual meeting into your calendar. It is important for members to take part in events such as this in order to hear from everyone and hear new ideas and thoughts about the gallery.

Annual Member's Meeting

Richard Harrington
Monotype Workshop

New Artist Members

Richard Harrington 2 Day Monotype Workshop

Friday, April 26th & Saturday, 27th

Members $100/day; Non-Members $115/day

includes materials fee of $20/day- participants may register for one or both days.

RICHARD HARRINGTON, a member of the Rhode Island Watercolor Society and an award- winning painter, has been creating monotypes for a number of years. Introduced to water based monotypes at the Touro Center for the Arts, he has been exploring toxic free methods in this art form along with painting in watercolor and acrylic paints. Monotypes are paintings done on a prepared plexiglas plate using watercolor, oil or printing inks. A damp piece of paper is placed over the plate and put under pressure through a print press. The pressure forces the image to be transferred from the plate to the paper (in reverse). The plate sometimes retains a very light image of the design and a second (ghost) image can be pulled. The artist can then choose to clean the plate, add more paint to revise the design, paint directly on the monotype with pencils, pastels, etc.

Watercolor monotypes: Friday, April 26:

Materials provided will include a prepared plexiglas plate, gum arabic and print paper. Bring your watercolor supplies- paints (including white), brushes, watercolor paper, palette, water container, paper towels, etc.

Oil based monotypes; Saturday, April 27:

Materials provided will include a prepared plexiglas plate, Grumbacher MAX and/or Lukas "water miscable" paints, print paper. Bring bristle brushes, palette, water container, paper towels, etc.

For both classes, bring sketches, photos or still life set-ups to work from. Don't forget your lunch!

This class is intended for artists with some experience in painting, and is limited to 10 participants each day. Questions? You may call Richard Harrington at (401) 247-5456.
